The Rise of the Phoenix: The Daimones Trilogy, Vol. 3 (Volume 3) Massimo Marino

The final volume of the Daimones Trilogy: the death and rebirth of the human race.

In a dark future, a first contact and an alien colonization changes forever the destiny of the race of man. Aliens have regenerated a new, transgenic species of humans called the Selected. The first contact with the aliens led to the apocalypse--Daimones Trilogy Vol.1--and then put the seeds for a galactic upheaval, space wars against aliens, and galactic empires struggles.

The last humans--the 'spared ones'--have all died but Hope, the second of Dan Amenta's human daughters, though she's living her last days, too. Dan has seen Earth become a different world as the new civilization rises. A new neurological drug, Fusion, is heavily produced on Eridu--as Earth is known in the Galaxy--and has created the path for a rapid evolution of the new humans, richness and good fortune.

The past events--Daimones Trilogy Vol.2--revealed the crucial role the humans have in the galaxy organization...and made them aware of their strength. Once Hope leaves this life, a moral obligation suddenly is no more. Things can change, and they must. A new order and a new course will put in place the events destined to rip apart the foundations of the galaxy.

"Even with the best of intentions, cruelty is just around the corner."
